

2015 Faculty Institute

Central Washington University

November 5, 2015

8:30 am – 4:00 pm

2015 Faculty Institute

Building on previous Faculty Institute themes, participants will choose one of three tracks to explore how civic engagement improves student learning while addressing critical issues. The three tracks are: Sustainability, Diversity and Social Justice, and Economic Development (with an emphasis on Social Entrepreneurship). Keynote speakers will highlight the intersectionality of the tracks throughout the day.

Goals for the Day

- Participants will gain new knowledge and skills in the track of their choice
- Participants will learn about the interconnectedness of diversity/social justice, sustainability and economic development (entrepreneurship/social innovation)
- Participants will network with other faculty and administrators across the state.
- Participants will gain new understanding of how student civic engagement can be used to improve learning while addressing critical issues in our communities.
